Joshua Long is the vice president of the American Guard and is a member of the Proud Boys. He lives on a ranch in Moore, Idaho, with his wife, Kasey Long and three young daughters.

Joshua is one of the co-founders of the American Guard, and he acts as the group's vice president. The president of the organization is Brien James, a former Klansman, Hammerskin, and founder of the Vinlanders Social Club, a violent neo-nazi gang that is linked to numerous murders across the country.

The American Guard has deep ties to open white nationalist gangs like The Hammerskins, The Traditionalist Workers Party, and The Aryan Nations. Unlike many of these other, more overt, groups, they also associate with alt-lite organizations like Patriot Prayer and The Proud Boys. This makes them particularly dangerous, as they are able to bring their extreme views and violence into spaces that typically cater to regular conservatives, who they attempt to further radicalize.

Like the American Guard as a whole, Joshua Long frequently claims to not be a racist. Describing himself as a 'Constitutional Nationalist'. However, like the rest of the group, his rhetorical veil is paper thin. He has a long history with the white supremacist movement, and this tacky rebrand does not mean anything other than a flimsy attempt to deceive causal onlookers.

Joshua is a former member of The Hated, a neo-nazi bonehead gang. Below, he is pictured wearing a shirt with The Hated's logo. The number 14 in the logo is a reference to the 'fourteen words', a popular neo-nazi slogan.

Joshua's commitment to the white nationalist cause is so strong, that he literally bears the movement's symbols in his skin. He has at least three identified white nationalist tattoos that he displays proudly. On his left arm, he has a Swastika, a Celtic Cross and a Totenkopf, all of which have a deep history in past and present Nazi movements.

The Broken Sun Cross is a version of the Swastika that is based on a pagan, German, symbol. The symbol was used by several divisions of the Nazi army during WWII.

The Celtic Cross is a pagan symbol appropriated by Norwegian Nazis in World War II. Many American white nationalist groups, most notably the forum 'Stormfront', utilize the symbol.

The Totenkopf is a symbol worn by the SS in Nazi Germany. It is frequently used by neo-nazis as an identifier.

In addition to his role in American Guard leadership, Joshua is also a member of the Proud Boys, alongside Brien James. The Proud Boys often claim that they are not racist, and are rather “western chauvinists”. The organization frequently claims that they do not harbor any racists or fascists in their ranks. The fact that they have members like Long and James is clear proof that this is a lie.

Joshua has been a key part of many of American Guard's actions and events.

He participated in the Indianapolis MAGA march on March 5th 2017. The march was the first major event American Guard had a presence in, and it served as a catalyst for the organization. It has been reported that the march featured people wearing Vinlanders gear and throwing white nationalist gang signs.

In July of 2019, he hosted the group's annual leadership gathering on his family's ranch in Moore Idaho. There, members from across the country shot guns, sat in hot tubs, and planned for the organization's future.

On August 17th 2019, Joshua was a part of the American Guard contingent of Joe Bigg's “End Domestic Terrorism” rally. The group traveled from across the country on an armored bus, carrying firearms and other weapons. One California member, Mark Quon, attacked an antifascist counter-protestor with a hammer, before being disarmed and smacked with it.

Joshua works as a long haul truck driver. He is frequently traveling in Oregon, Utah, California, and other western states.

When he isn't on the road, Joshua lives with his family on a ranch in Moore Idaho.

He and Kasey have three young daughters, two of whom are elementary school aged. The couple claims to be homeschooling their children, and have expressed their intent to raise them with their own toxic ideology.

I'm having a blast searching through the history/archives of Western Civilization to build a good homeschool curriculum for our girls. Ive found the majority of pre packaged curriculums to be just as degraded as public school curriculum. Who else home schools their children? What are you using to build your curriculum?

In this Facebook post, Long describes his attempts to homeschool his young daughters, and imprint them with his own reactionary politics.

This has been proven effective. Joshua also has an adult daughter, Callie Long, who lives in New Mexico, and has taken to repping a backpatch for the explicitly white supremacist, black metal band Burzum.

Joshua Long is a white nationalist, pure and simple. He and his fellow American Guard members present a legitimate danger to society, and should be treated with upmost caution.

Information about the couple's whereabouts and employment can be found:
